Risks when investing in international shares (Risk Disclosure Statement)

The risks involved with investment in international securities differ significantly from investment in securities quoted on the Australian Securities Exchange. The risks outlined below should not be relied upon as a complete list or explanation of the risks involved. If you need further explanation regarding investment in local or international equity markets, you should seek appropriate professional financial advice.

You and your financial adviser should be aware of the following risks associated with investing in local and international equities, including (but not limited to):

- Capital loss – Investing in shares in the secondary market is by no means a guaranteed investment. Shareholders may receive only a fraction of their original investment amount or could face the prospect of the complete loss of the amount they invested in the shares of that company.
- Foreign Currency movements - Your international securities may be denominated in a currency other than Australian dollars. Adverse foreign exchange rate movements may move more than offset security price gains. It is your responsibility to monitor foreign currency movements and manage your exposure in accordance with your acceptable risk appetite.
- International Custodian - Your international securities will be held in the custody of an International Custodian appointed by Monex AU. Our International Custodian may be subject to risk arising from change to the political, legal, regulatory or commercial environment of the country of the Custodian or International Stock Exchange applicable, refer to our Terms and conditions for further information.

- Withholding Tax – Use of an international Custodian may result in withholding tax being applied at a rate that is different to the withholding tax that would normally apply in your country of residence. You should seek further professional taxation and/or financial advice in relation to this matter.
- Market risk - the value of both local and international securities may be affected by market variables, such as volatility in share markets, general economic conditions and interest rates, as well as issues specific to the securities. Please consult with your financial adviser in accordance with your acceptable risk appetite.
